Short Film Screening

Durango-based filmmaker Sean Owen won Best Native American Documentary at the Santa Fe Film Festival with his film Tribal Radio! The film was also nominated for Best Short Film and Best Short Film Director at Idyllwild International Film Festival.

ICL will host Mr. Owen and screen his 27 minute film about KSUT-FM, based in Ignacio, which was one of the first tribal radio stations in the U.S. The film tells the story of the Southern Ute Indian staff members who established it in 1976 and how it grew into a prominent regional station.

Saturday September 28 at 11:00 a.m.

TRIBAL RADIO

"Stories from the Homeland" with Angel Vigil

Accomplished author, performer, theatre director and educator Angel Vigil is coming to ICL! He is the author of six award-winning books on Hispanic Western arts & culture.

His show Cuentos de Aztlán, Stories from the Homeland is an engaging and illuminating journey into the Latino soul as expressed in traditional and modern stories. Including everything from morality tales to animal fables, from chistes — short comic tales guaranteed to amuse, to amazing tales of wonder, there is something for everyone!

Voices of Ignacio Digital Collection

The Ignacio Community Library is proud to announce the re-launch of the "Voices of Ignacio" website!

Voices of Ignacio is a history project launched in 2015 with the mission of collecting interviews of local townspeople as well as written stories, photos, and artwork that pertain to Ignacio history.

Featured along the walls of the library this month will be posters representing previous interviewees— please stop in and look at them all month long!

The new Voices of Ignacio website can be found at: voicesofignacio.cvlcollections.org, or on our library's main website under the Resources tab on the History of Ignacio.

BANNED Books Week

"Banned Books Week is September 22 –28. It was launched in 1982 in response to a sudden surge in the number of challenges to books in schools, bookstores and libraries. It highlights the value of free and open access to information. Banned Books Week brings together the entire book community — librarians, booksellers, publishers, journalists, teachers, and readers of all types — in shared support of the freedom to seek and to express ideas, even those some consider unorthodox or unpopular."

Data Base Highlights!

If you go to our website; ignaciolibrary.org and hit the research tab, you will find many databases. This month we're highlighting NoveList K-8. It is a trusted source of read-alike recommendations specifically for younger readers. It helps kids find books that are just right for their reading level and interests. Parents, teachers, and librarians can also find tools to teach with books and engage young readers.

School is back and your library has many ways to help during the year! One way can be found under the research databases tab on our website, it's called Primary Search. It gives you access to articles and information from popular elementary school magazines, encyclopedias, and dictionaries. Give it a look to better help your child this year!

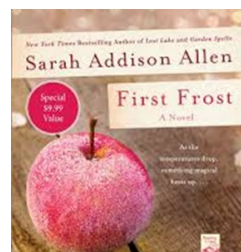

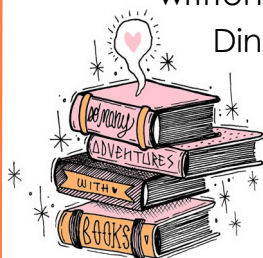

Computer Tip of the Month

Often people post Word documents, spreadsheets, slides, and PDFs on the internet. Perhaps you are looking for files on 'fall recipes' but you are only interested in PDF's. Modify your search to look like this: "fall recipes"filetype:pdf By doing this Google will only search for files with the term 'fall recipes' that are PDF's.

Starting Mon, Sept. 16, 5:30 p.m. The Book Sisters!

An evening for women to let their hair down, make new friends and enjoy discovering a new book. This month's featured book is First Frost written by Sarah Ellen Addison.

Dinner will be provided.

KUDOS to our associates at the Southern Ute Drum!

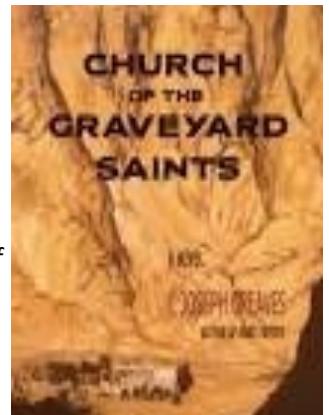

They brought home 13 awards from the National Native Media Awards competition in July, including a 1st place for General Excellence and a 1st place for Best Digital Publication. The competition is between peer newspapers in Indian country throughout the nation as recognized by the Native American Journalists Association. The Drum's editor Jeremy Wade Shockley received 4 awards in photography, Photographer/Reporter McKayla Lee took 3 awards, and Trennie Collins landed 3 awards for photography. ICL applauds our associates at the Drum!

Adult Education

The ICL is now offering educational support for anyone 16 years of age or older; including test-taking skills for exams such as the SAT, ACT, ASVAB, and the GED. Please contact Andrew Hutchinson at 970-563-9287, or by email: ahutchinson@ignaciolibrary.org, with any questions or comments you may have, or to set up an appointment to get started!

Four Corners/One Book

Six cities/public libraries have joined forces to launch an annual regional reading program called "Four Corners/One Book" with the goals of promoting literacy, encouraging dialogue, and building community through the shared experience of story. Located in the American Southwest, the cities of Cortez, Dolores, Ignacio, Mancos, and Montrose (Colorado) as well as Moab (Utah) have selected Church of the Graveyard Saints by C. Joseph Greaves as the program's inaugural title. Set in the Four Corners, the book tells the story of a young woman's return to her hometown only to discover that the oil and gas boom promising prosperity to the larger community is threatening her family's ranching heritage.

ICL is offering a multi-event program to patrons who are interested in learning more about the public lands and national forests mentioned in the novel.

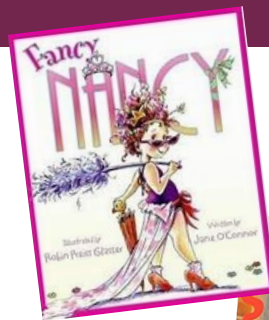

Monday, September 23rd the first twelve people to sign up for the One Book/Four Corners - Ignacio Library series will receive a free copy of Church of the Graveyard Saints.

Thursday, October 17th at 6 pm the ICL will host Dr. Andrew Gulliford from Ft. Lewis College who will be giving a talk on President Theodore Roosevelt and his connections with Southwest Colorado - including Roosevelt's designation and creation of the San Juan National Forest.

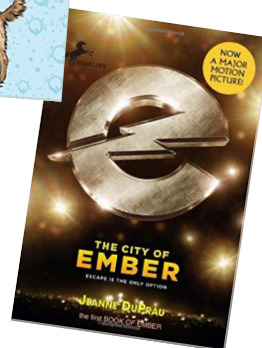

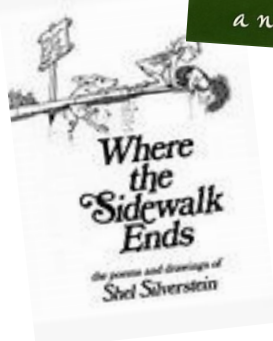

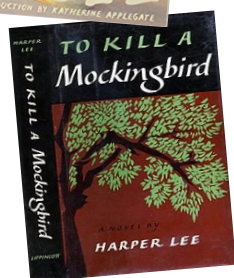

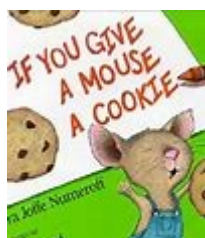

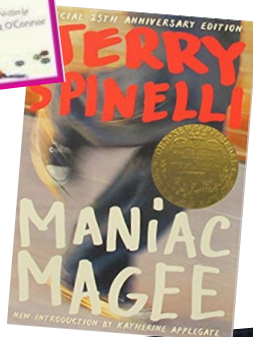

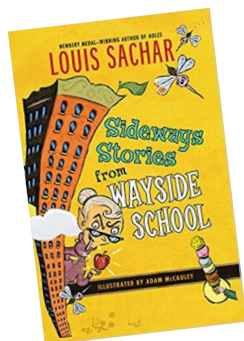

Thursday, November 14th at 5:30 pm the ICL will host the San Juan String Band, a lively group from the San Juan National Forest Service whose members have combined their passion for the environment with their love of music, to provide conservation education and environmental awareness messages for the public.

Saturday, December 7th at 10 am the novel's author, C. Joseph Greaves, will be visiting the ICL to discuss his novel with program participants—as well as sign books for those in attendance!

Please sign up for the One Book/Four Corners program at the ICL on or after Monday, September 23 by contacting the library by phone or visiting the service desk in order to receive a free book!

The library has some recommendations for books your students should read this school year from beginner to advanced!

Coming in October...

Just in time for Halloween on Sunday, October 27th at 2 pm is the ICL's 5th annual Mystery Dinner! Participants gather clues provided throughout the plot and use them to deduce the identity and motive of the murderer. This year the theme is Murder in the Florida Keys. Guests will be on teams to work together to solve the crime. The suspects will be visiting with them, giving small clues and answering questions.

We are looking for ten people to play suspects for the mystery dinner. If you have an interest in taking on a part as a suspect please contact Andrew Hutchinson at the library or stop by the service desk. You will be given a description and brief history of your suspect's part, and we will meet several times to go over the script and get to know the other people participating with in this fun event. We hope you consider playing a part!

Again this October—November is, Family Literacy Night! Adults will learn and practice ways to increase reading in the home. Kids will get storytime, crafts and games led by library staff.

Also, Fall Card Making on Sat, October 12 and
No Carve Pumpkin
Decorating—Wed, Oct. 24!
