COLORADO TALKING BOOKS

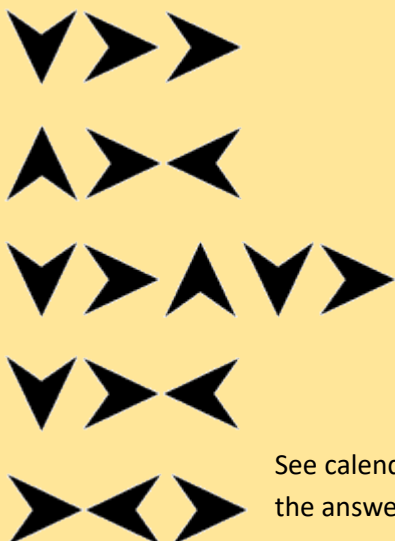

If you or someone you know are not able to enjoy books or magazines because: you cannot see well enough to read conventional print; a physical disability prevents you from handling the printed materials; a reading disability causes you to be unable to read you may want to take advantage of the services offered by the Colorado Talking Book Library. ICL has 75-80 CTBL large-print books at any given time—available to any patrons who would like to check them out! We also have audio books and other playable devices available for check-out. BRAIN TEASER

Each of these sets of arrows represents a word - what are the words?

MENTAL HEALTH TIPS

- Make some plans for the cold months; In the winter we tend to hibernate if we don't have things to keep us busy.
- Regularly wash your hands! Flu season will be here before we know it.
- Be kind to yourself. The holidays can cause weight gain. The shorter days can cause depressed moods. And the flu season can cause sickness. Listen to your body, give it what needs, and don't beat yourself up!

NEED A GOOD DESSERT FOR YOUR FOOD ENDEAVORS THIS MONTH?

Try this! Apple Pie Monkey Bread.

Ingredients:

- 3 8 oz tubes refrigerated biscuits
- 1 cup of sugar
- 1 tsp apple pie spice
- 2 apples peeled, cored, and diced
- 1/2 cup butter

Remove biscuits from tubes and cut each biscuit into quarters. Place sugar and apple pie spice in a large, plastic zip top bag.

Working in batches, place a few quartered biscuits into the bag and shake to coat. Remove biscuits from bag and place into a large mixing bowl. Repeat until all biscuits have been coated in the sugar mixture.

Add in diced apples to the mixing bowl and stir gently to incorporate apples evenly into the mix. Transfer mixture to a well greased bundt pan. Pour melted butter over top.

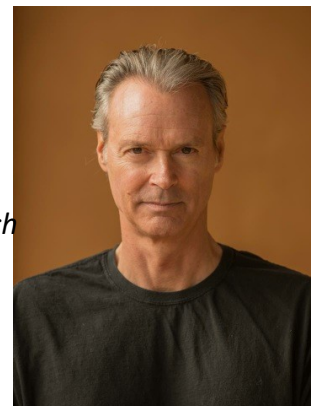

Bake at 375 degrees for 25 - 30 minutes. Cool for 5 minutes, then loosen sides of cake and invert onto a cooling rack to cool completely.

Native American Heritage book of the month

The same year that Apollo 11 astronaut Neil Armstrong took small steps on the moon, two writers made a giant leap for Native American studies. In 1969, N. Scott Momaday (Kiowa) won the Pulitzer Prize for fiction with his novel House Made of Dawn, becoming the lone American Indian author to do so. While oral storytelling has always flourished amongst America's first citizens, only nine Native-written novels had made their way to print prior to Momaday's classic work. I refer to this dearth of published American Indian literature simply as the time "Before Momaday." The paradigm shift continued with Vine Deloria Jr.'s (Standing Rock Sioux) Custer Died for Your Sins: An Indian Manifesto, a nonfiction work that shared blunt assessments alongside humorous observations about what was needed in tribal communities. Deloria's book is a lodestar that guided Native scholars for generations, holding a hallowed place equal to Momaday in the canon of Native literature. Although these books are celebrating their golden anniversaries, their wisdom is as stirring today as it was 50 years ago.

...Excerpt from Custer Is Still Dead: Momaday, Deloria, and the Next Native Renaissance, Tribal College Journal, online, by Ryan Wynn.
